

ObamaCare Is Unconstitutional

By Elizabeth Weber Levy

March 19, 2010

Members of Congress must be instructed to stop the utter destruction of the Constitution. Turning a "good" or a "commodity" into a "right" is patently unconstitutional. Our rights come from God, - for nonbelievers, from our humanity - not from government. Further, mandating that every citizen buy a product, upon pain of fines and/or imprisonment, is equally unconstitutional.

In terms of process, the Deem and Pass Rule, or the Slaughter Solution, is, on its face, unconstitutional. Yes, it has been used by other Administrations, but it was used in a perfunctory manner. Not to defend its use, - it was unconstitutional then as it is now - but it was used mostly to deal with budget issues, not as a tool to provide political cover in order to pass overwhelmingly unpopular, paradigm-shifting legislation.

Our health and our freedom are both at stake. In truth, without the Constitution, the country doesn't exist. Ergo, Mr. President, what is more important, your presidential legacy or the Constitution you swore to "preserve, protect and defend?"